

5_57 U96935703 Aluri USF.EE

the multiplier is designed using behavioral modeling to define the functional logic
It utilizes high-level constructs to describe operations like addition, shifting, and partial product accumulation without explicitly defining hardware components.
This implementation focuses on correctness and functionality rather than hardware-specific details.

